

Write a Java function that takes an array of integers and returns the count of distinct values in the array. Also the function should print the distinct values

For example, given the array [2, 1, 1, 3, 9, 1], the function should return 3 , since there are three distinct values (2, 3, and 9) in the array, also should print these values.